New Industries in Washington. The merchants of Washington have long felt the injustice of the discrimination which has been made against this city and in favor has been made against this city and in favor of Baltimore, and they have now resolved to see if some of the enterprises, which have been remainerative in the Monumental City cann of be as successfully carried on here. A rumor prevailed yesterday afternoon that an accident had happened to the steamer Ar menia, which left her wharf yesterday for Lower Cedar Point with about 200 passengers. By inquiry at the wharf it was ascertained that there was no foundation for the rumor, and the natural inference is that it arose from the accident at Tivoli, Md., the locality being confounded with the old Giesboro point now known as Tivoli park.

Mr. Bowers, the manager of the Armenia, thinks that the rumor was maliciously circulated, and has offered a reward of $1,000 for TYLER & CHEWNING, the apprehension and conviction of any parties circulating rumors detrimental to the steamer, which, he says, was recently inspected and pronounced in good condition.
